CONSTITUTION,
Atlanta, Ga.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

The decisions of the recent term of the supreme court of the state in pamphlet form will soon be ready for delivery. They embrace a full report of all of the decisions that have been rendered, carefully revised and corrected. Orders should be sent in at once.

ANOTHER WAR MAP.

On Sunday morning we will publish a map of the seat of war in Asia Minor that will show the highways, mountain passes and all the other essential features of the section in which the armies are operating. The scale of the map will be so large that all the changes in the position of the two armies can be readily traced. We do not hesitate to say that it will be a better war map of the country that has been printed in the south.

WHAT THEY SAY.

The Fort Valley Mirror has this compliment: "We call especial attention of our readers to the prospectus of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. It always contains the very latest news; special telegrams being a distinctive feature of the paper. The editorials are able and pointed, and will compare favorably with the large metropolitan journals of the north and the west. The local columns are replete with everything transpiring in the city or surrounding country. Mr. Harris's Roundabout column is never dull. The agricultural department, edited by Mr. Malcolm Johnson, is chock full of information for the farmers. In short, it is a model newspaper, and our readers who want a paper from the capital, should subscribe for it."

THE CONVENTION DELEGATES.

The ticket nominated at the meeting of the county committees of the thirty-fifth senatorial district, which assembled here yesterday, is embodied in the proceedings of the meeting printed elsewhere. The ticket is a good one, and will meet with general favor throughout the district. It is composed of admirable material. From Fulton we have four lawyers and a leading merchant, from Cobb we have two well-to-do farmers and an excellent business man, and from Clayton we have a young lawyer of great promise and sprightliness.

MR. HAYES seems determined to bring about civil service reform. Our telegrams contain information to the effect that Jesse W. Jackson has been appointed internal revenue agent for the district of Georgia and Alabama in place of Alvin B. Clark, who has resigned. It would thus appear that Jackson is in big luck, and if the appointment of United States marshal is as astonishing as this, we propose to make our way to Washington and shake Mr. Hayes by his lily white hand. He deserves great credit, and we trust he will get it.

MANY of the principal streets of the city were flushed with water last night for the purpose of clearing them of all dirt and filth. This, however, was only an experiment. If the merchants along the principal thoroughfares will contribute a small sum each the streets will be flushed every night during the summer, thus adding to the health of the city and allaying the dust. We trust the proper arrangements will be made.

THE Calcutta papers freely discuss the famine that prevails in the Madras districts. The sufferings of the people and the number of deaths are almost incredible. About 700,000 are employed on the government relief works, and nearly 300,000 more are receiving gratuitous relief. The continuance of the drought and of the scarcity of food depend upon the June rains.

IT is stated that the administration is troubled because it has no money to make a show at the French exposition in 1878. Let the administration console itself. If it can make a decent show at home in 1878 it will be quite a feather in its cap.

BISMARCK is of the opinion, it appears, that the appointment of a clerical and monarchical cabinet in France might be prejudicial to German interests, and to the maintenance of peace between France, Germany and Italy.

THE postal commission, with Postmaster General Key and railway mail superintendents left Washington last night. They will take Atlanta in their route.

ANDREW CLARK, collector of the second Georgia district, has been allowed to make a new bond to satisfy his bondsmen. We trust his bondsmen will be satisfied.

THE death of W. M. G. Hosmer, the poet, is announced. He died in Rochester.

IT is stated that MacMahon has requested Don Carlos to leave France.

THE New Orleans custom house is to be investigated.

The Louisville Course.

LOUISVILLE, May 23.—For the half-mile heat ten started. Pomeroy won; Bramble second and Buford's McHenry third. Time, 49¼. One and three-quarter mile heat eight started. Courier won; Kilburn second and Dusty third. Time, 3:05½. It is the fastest recorded. Two mile heat three started. Whisper won; Katrine second and Glasgow third. Time, 3:36¾.

Petersburg's Jubilee.

PETERSBURG, May 23.—A grand reception in honor of the delegates from the English, Scotch, Irish and Welsh societies of the northern states and Canada attending the international British celebration, took place this morning.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION.

VOL. IX. ATLANTA, GA. THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 24, 1877. NO. 302

THE GROUND OF GORE.

THE CAPTURE OF ARDAHAN GIVES THE RUSSIANS AN ADVANTAGE IN THE OPERATIONS AGAINST KARS.

England Filling Malta with Immense Stores of War Material.

The Hungarians Enthusiastic for War Against Russia.

Prince Milan Determined to be Just as Big a Man as King Karl, of Roumania.

MILAN'S IMPATIENCE.

Hungary Becoming Unmanageable—Austria Drifting In.

LONDON, May 23.

A Vienna dispatch to the Daily Telegraph announces that the Austrian government's attention is riveted on increasing agitation in Hungary. There is eager clamor for war amongst all classes.

The council of ministers at Belgrade resolved that Prince Milan shall inform the czar, after the Roumanian proclamation of independence, that Servia cannot remain neutral.

Roumania's declaration caused great excitement at Vienna. All the Hungarian papers, however, declare that the hour for action has arrived for Austria and Hungary.

A letter from Kossuth, published, urges an alliance between Hungary and Turkey against their common enemy, Russia.

THE HOLY WAR.

Shaking of the Rag by the Phick Ul Islam

LONDON, May 23.

A Vienna dispatch to the Times says Shiek Ul Islam in proclaiming a holy war against Russia and the almost simultaneous announcement from Constantinople that the departure of the sultan for the Danube has been decided upon would seem to show that the advice of those who, all along, have looked upon the present struggle as one of existence of the Ottoman empire has gained the ascendancy in the council of the porte.

BY BRIGADE AND DIVISION.

The Abchassian Insurrection—English Stores for Malta—Reinforcements to Erzeroum—Firing on an Austrian Vessel.

LONDON, May 23.—The Daily News Bucharest dispatch reports that at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the Turks fired from Rahova at an Austrian steamer, which, after several shots, caukht fire.

A Vienna dispatch to the News says: From Cettinje it is announced that Montenegro has postponed recommencement of hostilities until the Russians have actually crossed the Danube.

A dispatch from Pera to the Daily Telegraph, says a portion of the Ardahan garrison took the road to Ardanudj, having cut its way through the Russian column, which endeavored to intercept it. The Russians are said to have closed in on the rear of Batoum, which is once more seriously threatened.

A Russian decree orders the formation of two more Cossack divisions to reinforce the operating army.

The Abachsians are in full insurrection. The Turks have armed them. The sultan has ordered twenty thousand revolvers to be paid for from his private purse for distribution in Caucassus.

There are five great Indian sloops ships at Portsmouth in readiness to proceed to sea, if required for other service.

A thousand barrels of powder embarked for Malta to-day.

The Turkish council of ministers resolved to send all reinforcements arriving to Erzeroum and Batoum. The fall of Ardahan secures the Russians in their position before Kars, and opens a new line of operations against Erzeroum. The Russians have replaced the Roumanian troops at Oltenitza. The relieved Roumanians marched toward Little Wallachia, where they will concentrate and remain on the defensive.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23.—The commander of the Ardahan garrison will be courtmartialed. The Turkish official account of the taking of Ardahan admits of a loss of 300 killed and wounded.

The horses belonging to all civil and military functionaries will be taken for the army.

RAGUSA, May 23.—Several of the Miridite insurrectionary leaders have been arrested near Glenbigne by the Turks while on the way to Montenegro to concert in common action with the prince. There is great excitement among the Miridites.

LONDON, May 23.—A Reuter's dispatch from Erzeroum says the Russian left wing has advanced from Speck to within two hours' march of Kara Kilisa, which an Ottoman detachment holds the position to Toprak Kaleh. Two regiments of Cossacks are scouring the country around the Penek villages, within seven hours' march of Mukhta, Pasha's camp, for provisions for the Russian right wing.

Threatening Tunis.

BERLIN, May 23.—The North German Gazette states that Russia has declared to Tunis that if military or pecuniary aid is rendered to the sultan, the Bey must prepare to see his capital bombarded. The Tunis government is also disquieted by the concentration of a French force on the frontier.

Impeaching a Traitor.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23.—The chamber of deputies has voted a resolution demanding the impeachment of Mahmoud Neden Pasha.

NOTE—Mahmoud Neden Pasha was grand vizier under sultan Abdul Aziz, and was known as a friend of the Russians and a tool of Gen. Ignatieff.

Roumania's Independence.

LONDON, May 23.—The Times' Bucharest dispatch says it is believed Russia will first recognize the independence of Roumania, and that Germany, France and Italy will follow. England and Austria are expected to delay recognition.

A Suicide Found.

DAYTON, O., May 23.—The body of Earnest Kaut, who has been missing for two weeks, was yesterday found in the Miami river, near Franklin. There were marks of violence about his head that led to suspicion of foul play, but an examination showed the wounds were sustained after death, the body having floated twenty-five miles in the river. He is supposed to have committed suicide.

Seven Persons Drowned.

HALIFAX, May 23—Four men and three women were drowned at Malagnawatik, Cape Breton, Sunday last, by the upsetting of a boat while on their way to church.

DISTURBED BY FRANCE.

The German Garrisons on the Frontier—How Italy Views It—Suppressing the Press.

PARIS, May 23.—Don Carlos has started for Linz, in Austria.

Prosecutions have been instituted against the provincial papers of Marseilles and Paris for insulting MacMahon.

Le Patrie says the idea of postponing the exhibition of 1878 is seriously entertained in consequence of the complicated condition of foreign affairs, but no decision has been reached.

Many sub-prefects have resigned.

BERLIN, May 23.—The North German Gazette says delay in the adoption of measures to counterbalance the increase of forces in eastern France is not caused by any doubts as to the necessity of such measures, but only by consideration relative to the details.

ROME, May 23.—In the chamber of deputies to-day Ministers Mideavar and Depretis, replying to the interpellations relative to the relations between France and Italy, made a most reassuring statement to the affect that the cordial relations of the two countries have not been affected by the recent events in France.

PARIS, May 23.—It is said that forty legitimist senators are dissatisfied with the government's intentions concerning clerical question and have decided to join the left in refusing to grant the dissolution. Marshal MacMahon has power to prorogue, but not to dissolve the deputies. Gambetta will visit the larger provincial towns to superintend republican resistance.

LONDON, May 23.—The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon has a Paris dispatch saying, MacMahon requested Don Carlos to leave France to-night.

The Times' dispatch has the following: France will doubtless pronounce overwhelmingly against President MacMahon at the election, even if the senate gives a majority in his favor, of the dissolution which is very doubtful. The refusal of the senate to authorize a dissolution would inevitably cause MacMahon's resignation.

BERLIN, May 23.—The North German Gazette, the ministerial organ, reprints the passages from the previous speeches and dispatches of Prince Bismarck to the effect that the appointment of a clerical and monarchical cabinet in France might be prejudice to the German interests, and the maintenance of peace between France, Germany and Italy.

HOTBLOOD D HOTHEADS.

The People of San Domingo on the Point of Revolution.

HAVANA, May 23.—Advices from San Domingo to the 9th instant state that a political conspiracy was discovered May 7 in San Domingo City. Thirty persons implicated were arrested, and others took refuge in the different consulates. Subsequently guards were placed before the dwellings of the different consuls to prevent their further use as asylums. Great consternation prevailed and a revolution seemed imminent. The maladministration of the finances seemed to be the principal cause of the discontent.

THE CHURCHES IN COUNCIL.

The Northern Presbyterians Declining the Question—The Methodist Protestant: Still at Work.

BALTIMORE, May 23—In the Methodist Protestant convention boundaries of North Carolina were changed to include Greenfield, West Virginia, circuit. The committee on boundaries reported, defining Pittsburg, West Virginia and Michigan districts, and recommending the abolishment of Tennessee and North Carolina, as they were included in other districts. The report was discussed at length but no action was taken.

BALTIMORE, May 23—Pittsburg was selected as the next place of meeting of the Methodist Protestant convention.

Consideration of the report of the committee on boundaries was resumed and the report adopted.

The districts of Michigan, West Michigan, Indiana and Kentucky remain unchanged.

Other districts in the north, south and west, with a few important changes, remain the same.

CHICAGO, May 23.—A telegram has been received from the Presbyterian assembly south now in session at New Orleans, which says: The southern assembly disapprove of that part of the northern assembly's greeting, which omits reference to the main part of their paper sent to Brooklyn from Savannah, and says if our brothers of the northern church can meet us on those terms which truth and righteousness seems to require, then we are ready to establish such relations with them during the present session of the assembly.

ON THE BOSOM OF THE LAKE.

A Woman Drowned Under Suspicious Circumstances.

CHICAGO, May 23.—A young man named Walter Dupey, and a woman named Annie Blade, while out rowing on the lake Monday night, were overturned and probably both drowned. Two companions in another boat saw the boat capsize in the distance and could find nothing of the bodies. The affair is rather mysterious. Late in the day the man was discovered in the city, but it is certain that the woman is drowned. Efforts have been made to raise her body by firing along the shore in the vicinity of Twenty-third street, where the accident occurred, but without success.

At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Monday, a brick block in process of erection fell, carrying with it eighteen or twenty workmen, and killing and injuring several, some fatally. A high wind was the cause.

The Baltimore Races.

BALTIMORE, May 23.—Mile heats, three year olds, who had not won in two years—Lucifer won; Cloverbrook 2d; Diamond 3d. Time, 1:46. Cloverbrook the favorite.

2½ miles, all ages—Tom Ochiltree won; Preston 2d; Burgoo 3d. Time, 4:14. Favorite won.

1½ mile—Shylock won; Jenifer 2d; Invoice 3d. Time, 2:42½.

Mile heats, all ages—Rappahannock won; Partnership 2d. Time, 1:47.

Directors of the Cincinnati Southern.

CINCINNATI, May 23.—The stockholders of the Cincinnati Southern railway this afternoon elected the following directors: Rufus King, John Shillito, Robert Mitchell, David Sinton, J. H. Rogers, William Glenn, R. M. Shoemake, J. M. Kenney, Henry Lewis, Alfred Gaither, Preserved Smith, J. L. Keck, J. H. Rhodes. No ticket was run in opposition to this. The directors meet for organization Saturday next.

Work Resumed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The carpet-weavers in J. & J. Dobson's mills, at Falls Schuylkill, have been on a strike for a month. They resumed work yesterday.

SOMETHING SAD BUT SHARP.

Memphis Swindlers Manufacture a Dead Man to Cheat a Benevolent Institution.

NASHVILLE, May 23.—The American to-day has the following:

On the 7th of last July a lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen was organized in the city of Memphis, with thirteen charter members, by a deputy of the supreme lodge from Indiana. On the 10th of last February the officers of the lodge reported to the supreme lodge that a member named Samuel Sharp had died. With this came the request to forward the $2,000 due his heirs. The time at which this member was reported to have died was about two days prior to the organization of the grand lodge for this state. When the grand lodge was organized, Memphis lodge was no longer under the jurisdiction of the supreme lodge, but under the immediate control of the grand lodge. The grand lodge officers put themselves in correspondence with Memphis lodge, and after learning from their recorder, who was very dilatory about answering communications, that they had made no progress whatever, but that, instead, their membership was reported reduced from thirteen to ten by suspensions, they became satisfied that all was not right, and a special deputy was sent to Memphis to inquire into the circumstances relating to the death of Sharp.

While this deputy was in Memphis the draft payable to Sharp's heirs was sent to the grand recorder of this state, who forwarded it to the deputy, instead of sending it to the recorder of the lodge. The deputy, after remaining in Memphis for about ten days, and making diligent inquiry, was unable to find the lodge or any of its members. He conferred with the board of health, and with the assistance rendered him by friends, became satisfied that no such man as Samuel Sharp had died in Shelby county this year, and that parties were trying to swindle the grand lodge out of two thousand dollars. This they doubtless would have done had not the officers of the grand lodge acted with such promptness in the matter.

The deputy returned the draft to the grand recorder, who sent it back to the supreme lodge, and the grand master suspended Memphis lodge No. 1—so-called—from all the rights and privileges of the order.

A RIDE INTO DEATH.

The Fatal Ending of a Lunatic's Freak.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—As an engine belonging to the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad was standing on the track on Washington avenue, this afternoon, and during the temporary absence of the engineer and fireman, an unknown man jumped on the engine and started it at full speed towards the river front. Two freight cars which were attached to the engine struck the bumpers at Washington street wharf with such force that the engine was thrown from the track and the cars ran into the river. The stranger, who was evidently insane, was pitched into the water by the shock and drowned.

A FIGHT FOR THE FISH.

In which One of the Parties Comes to His Death.

MEMPHIS, May 23.—At daylight yesterday morning, two fishermen named Elisburg and Robinson on going to their nets on the Arkansas shore, opposite the month of Wolf river, caught two negroes named Sam Jefferson and Jim Bailey stealing their fish. A scuffle ensued during which Bailey and Jefferson were thrown into the river, and the latter being unable to swim was drowned. Bailey swam ashore, and to-day, in company with a lot of his friends, gathered around Elisburg's house, when the latter called on the chief of police for protection, which was afforded and the crowd left.

THE SABRE OF HER SIRE.

Will of a Woman Who was Once the Mistress of the White House.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The will of Anna M. Wood, daughter of Zachary Taylor, the hero of the Mexican war, and president of the United States, was put on file in the New York surrogate's court yesterday. Mrs. Wood made her will in Halifax, Nova Scotia, November 24, 1869, and died in this city December 22, 1875. The delay in the probate is owing to the fact that the subscribing witnesses live in Halifax, and to other causes. Mrs. Wood was mistress of the White House, and the leader of Washington society during the presidency of her father. Her daughter, Nina, was afterward one of the belles of Baltimore, and was married to the Baron von Grabow, a minister from a foreign state. Nina lives with her husband in Freiburg, Baden, Germany. The other grandchildren of Zachary are John T. Wood, Robert C. Wood, who resides in St. James parish, Louisiana, and Sarah K. Wood, who lives with her sister, the Baroness von Grabow.

Mrs. Wood left about $40,000. To her son, John T. Wood, she bequeathed the sword presented by the state of Louisiana to General Taylor. To her son Robert C. Wood, a gold medal presented by congress to the general; also a silver butter dish and milk pitcher. To her daughter, Nina, she bequeathed a silver punch ladle. Nina and Sarah were to draw lots for a silver pitcher presented to the general, and the pitcher, after the death of the successful drawer, is to go to the general's great grandson, Willie Boyce. To Sarah Mrs. Wood also bequeathed all her bank stock, and her furniture in the house, 25 East Thirty-first street, New York city. The remainder of her silver at Tiffany's and her plated ware were to go to her grandson, Robert C. Wood, and a watch which belonged to Zachary Taylor to Berlinger Trist Wood.

A Wife in the Case.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—In the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. the Missouri Pacific railway company and the Atlantic and Pacific telegraph company, Judge Thayer, of the St. Louis circuit court, on April 30, granted an injunction restraining the Atlantic and Pacific telegraph company from building a telegraph line upon the Missouri Pacific railroad, and also restraining the Missouri Pacific railway company from aiding or permitting such building. On May 12, the attorneys of the Atlantic and Pacific telegraph company and the railroad company made a motion to dissolve the injunction, supporting their motions by the most strenuous arguments their side of the case would permit. Yesterday morning Judge Thayer overruled the motion to dissolve, which would appear to foreshadow that the result will be in favor of the Western Union company at the final hearing, which is set for early in June.

A Dead Architect.

WASHINGTON, May 23.

The letter of resignation of Chief Justice Lewis, of Washington territory, proves to be a forgery, whereupon the appointment of Associate Justice Green to the place made yesterday is withheld.

Gabriel D Wharton has been appointed United States attorney for the district of Kentucky vice H. F. Finley removed.

THE GHOST OF HIS DREAMS.

No Rest for the Wicked in this Weary World.

WASHINGTON, May 23.

The New York Graphic has a dispatch from Washington to the effect that the postponement of the extra session of congress was due to the discovery of a conspiracy on the part of congressmen of both parties, headed by David Dudley Fields, to introduce a resolution declaring Samuel J. Tilden the honest president-elect, and inviting him to take his place in the White House.

THE COMING OF KEY.

The Postal Commission on its way to Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, May 23.

The postal commission, with Postmaster General Key and the railway mail superintendents, Vail and Marshall, leave to-night, and will be absent eight or ten days, and will visit in the order named Lynchburg, Danville, Charlotte, Atlanta, Chattanooga and Bristol.

POLITICAL PRELATES.

The Colored Preachers Equal to their Northern Brethren in Pulling the Wires for a Friend.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A delegation of the Baltimore and Philadelphia conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church called upon the president yesterday morning for the purpose of paying their respects. They returned their thanks for the consideration manifested by him towards the colored race, and expressed their desire for the success of his administration. The president appropriately replied and expressed his pleasure at meeting the delegation. During the interview, the chairman of the delegation said to the president: "We are not a political body, nor are we here to ask any special favors above that given to white citizens; nor are we here to dictate to your honor, the president. We are here to ask for justice. We are here in regard to the petitions circulated for the removal of the marshal of this district. We ask you, Mr. president, to require legal disqualification, and not that he shall be removed in order to satisfy the extreme malevolence of the party that hates his race. We scorn to count what bitter wrongs we have been subjected to by the party that is now clamoring for the removal of Mr. Douglass. We don't ask you to retain the marshal, but that you will not be influenced in your decision by popular excitement."

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Appointment—Wm. Locke, postmastmaster, at Eufaula, vice Clarke, resigned.

A Philadelphia delegation waited on the president. They desire a change in federal offices there.

Key knows nothing confirmatory of the report that his second and third assistants are to be bounced.

Governor Tom Young has assured the president that if his southern policy worked well there would not be a thousand republicans in Ohio dissatisfied with it.

The secretary of war has returned.

Dr. Wm. P. Jones succeeds Dr. Hasslock as postmaster at Nashville, who, the Star says, is removed for cause.

Indian Commissioner Smith will be absent two months inspecting the agencies.

They are promising the mission to Belgium to General Burbridge, of Kentucky.

Senator David Davis is critically sick at Bloomington, Ill.

Blaine was at the White house early this morning. He wants to have John L. Thomas made collector of customs at Baltimore.

Postmasters south and west complain of silver accumulating on their hands. They are compelled to take it in sums of five dollars for stamps, and cannot disburse it.

Jesse W. Jackson has been appointed internal revenue agent for the district of Georgia and Alabama, vice Alvin B. Clark resigned.

The counties of Rockdale and Newton are transferred from the third to the second Georgia district.

Andrew Clark, collector of the second Georgia district, has permission to make a new bond so as to release the old bondsmen who desire it.

The administration is troubled because they have no money to make a show at the French exposition of 1878.

There is a hitch in Wickersham's appointment to the Mobile postoffice. Special agent Fry, who is in Mobile on other business, has been instructed to look into it.

George H. Booker, minister to Russia, has resigned.

Secretary Sherman has decided to inaugurate and investigate the Philadelphia custom house; similar to the investigation now progressing at New York.

Investigation of the charges against Supervisor Peter J. Ralph, supervisor of the eighth district, resulted in an acquittal. He was charged with being interested in patents.

An investigation of the New Orleans custom house has been ordered.

A Gold Mine and a Duel.

LITTLE ROCK, May 23.—There is considerable excitement at Searcy, in White county, over the finding of what is taken to be a gold mine.

The differences between Col. Newton, of the Pine Bluff Press, and Mayor Reynolds, of the same place, which came very near resulting in a duel a few days ago, have been amicably settled.

Husband and Wife.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Mrs. Steambacher died Monday from poison which she took in consequence of a quarrel with her husband. To-day Steambacher shot himself fatally.

OAKEY "HALL'S "SUICIDE" ARTICLE.

The Part it Played in a Young Lady's Deliberate Death.

From the Buffalo Express, May 18

Miss Ida Louise Hawley, a young lady aged twenty years, the daughter of J. B. Hawley, of Hornellsville, left her father's residence last Sunday night and committed suicide by throwing herself into the Canisteo river. The Hornellsville Times says:

This is one of the most remarkable cases of suicide ever occurring in Hornellsville. Miss Hawley was a young lady of prepossessing appearance and good attainments. Shut out from society to a great extent by the malady of deafness, she lived in a world of her own creation. With a love for literature and art, she read works far above the average standing of books generally selected by young ladies, such as of the different schools of metaphysics. Such books sharpened her faculties for investigation and theorizing; and finding in one of the newspapers an article written by Oakey Hall, entitled the "Suicide Crop," which made a burlesque of this awful crime, Miss Hawley set about the task of treating the subject from a different standpoint. In an essay entitled "The Philosophy of Suicide," which she wrote and submitted to her friends—simply as a literary effort, as she would have them believe—there is undoubtedly allusion to her own infirmity in life when she uses these words. "Who does not pity the poor, disease-laden being who, through no fault of his immediate self, but through helpless inheritance of birth, suffers mental hampering all his life long from the ills that degrade his physical part?" This essay, together with a letter explaining her motive for taking her life, both of which were left pinned together on the bureau in her room, furnish the cause which impelled her to commit such a rash act. For prudential reasons, as regards the public, we do not publish the essay. It was Oakey Hall's newspaper article which she declares "prompted," though not "shaped" her essay, and we have no doubt that this was the beginning of a train of reasoning from false premises which led her on, step by step, to the awful act of self-destruction. The following is the note written by her on Sunday, a few hours before her death:

"WHY I COMMIT SUICIDE."

"The cause is not mortification or disappointment, dread of the future, or ill health, or lack of friends, or want. I am young—twenty—healthy. I have had always friends—never enemies. I never have known lack of food or clothing or love. The cause then arises from a deep seated conviction that this life is not worth living, for the prospect of a life beyond the world, which this is but a preparation for, is too vague and chimerical to make the aspirations unfilled—the struggles undeserved which the best of mankind must needs experience (and the best most) worth the repetition by each individual. I hold that the life of every person belongs to them to keep or destroy, as they deem best, and it is my will to destroy mine."

BEAUREGARD ON THE WAR.

His Sympathies With the Turk—What he Would do if he Were in Command—The Offer he Declined in 1866.

From the Louisville Commercial, May 19.

The following letter will be of interest to those who are studying the Russian-Turkish war. It is addressed by Gen. Beauregard to Col. Blanton Duncan. In 1866 the sovereign prince of Roumania tendered to Gen. Beauregard, then in Paris, the command of the armies. He offered the rank of field marshal, with a liberal outfit and $100,000 a year pay. Gen. Beauregard was to be at liberty to select his own staff and certain other officers, and to designate their rank, and the army was to be kept at 100,000 men. Col. Duncan would probably have been his chief of staff.

General Beauregard, believing that it was his duty to remain and share the fate of those whose fortune he had shared for four years of war, and that he might be serviceable to his own friends and fellow Confederates, declined the proposals. In view of the position, which, but for his declination, General Beauregard might now occupy, as one of the conspicuous figures of the great world's drama, his letter will be of peculiar interest. As armies shape the destinies of countries, and as monarchial armies are often wielded according to the will of a popular commanding general, it is a great loss to the Turks that General Beauregard did not go to Roumania, as the action of that country might have been shaped for Turkey instead of for Russia. Following is General Beauregard's letter:

NEW ORLEANS, May 10, 1877.

My Dear Colonel: I would indeed have been in the midst of it. But I must say that my sympathies, if any, are with the Turks, for they are the weaker party, and defending their homes and firesides. As to the pretext for the war on the part of Russia (the protection of the Christians in Turkey), it reminds me of the complaint of the wolf drinking at the same spring with the lamb. As you remark, Turkey offers magnificent lines of defense—the Danube and the Balkan mountains. With 200 000 or 300,000 confederate troops, I would guarantee to hold them against any number of Russians. If I were in command there I would fortify those lines well, and with my iron-clad gunboats, I would prevent the construction of any bridge across the Danube. I would send General Forrest with 25,000 or 30,000 cavalry to destroy all the depots of supplies, railroads and bridges from the Danube to Middle Russia, thence to some port of the Black sea, where I would transport his command to some other favorable point, say in rear of the Russian forces operating in Asia, south of the Black Sea. Forrest would be provided with camels to transport his light field artillery, baggage, and light pontoon trains. He would have also a full supply of carrier pigeons to keep me posted as to his movements. My fleet in the Black Sea would keep it free of the enemy's ships. I would destroy their supplies at Odessa and any other ports on the Black Sea. In other words, I would bring starvation to my assistance. How long do you think Russia could stand such a defensive war? Moreover, I am confident that the other powers of Europe will never allow Russia to get any nearer to Constantinople than the Balkan mountains, if even she gets there. Voila mon plan de campagne.

But I am a man of peace, now that Louisiana is free. I remain your friend. G. T. BEAUREGARD.

The Duc De Broglie.

The new premier of the French cabinet is a royalist by birth and training, though his royalistic tendencies have been more pronounced of late years than they were in the early part of his life. He was born in 1821, and made his first reputation in the world in the field of literature. He manifested an early ripeness of talent, which was almost precocious. He made his debut in La Reone des Deux-Mondes in 1848 with a severe article on the foreign policy of the republic. He afterwards became one of the principal contributors to La Correspondant. He wrote on a variety of political and religious subjects, attacking by turns the doctrines of the rational philosophy, of absolute imperial power, and of democracy, and upholding constitutional royalism and Catholicism. He was elected in 1862 a member of the French academy, and was received in 1863. He became the chief of his family in 1870 by the death of his father.

In the elections of February, 1877, he was elected to the national assembly from the district of Eure. The Duc de Broglie was sent at once to England as the minister of the French republic. This did not remove the duc from the theater of home politics, however. In accordance with the practice which has prevailed before and since in France, he remained an active member of the assembly. He came back to Versailles repeatedly to assist his party by word and vote, and during the whole of 1871 distinguished himself in the assembly by his support of the royalist policy. In the spring of 1872 complaints were made that the duc allowed his aristocratic proclivities to drag him into expressions which were not respectful to the government of the republic. His recall was demanded. De Broglie returned to France and the assembly, and at once lent the full strength of his talent and influence to the royalist party, and was one of its most active men. In June of 1872 he was one of the delegates of the right who called on President Thiers and tried to bend the stubborn will of that sturdy old republican toward the acceptance of a policy more in conformity with the wishes of the duc's party. His action on this occasion, and a long letter in which he sought afterward to justify it, were commented on by the press for a long period afterward. The Duc's effort on this occasion was an unsuccessful one. Thiers was strongly intrenched, and France was hourly becoming more and more pleased with republican institutions under his management. There was no need to concede anything to De Broglie.

The next prominent service rendered by the duc was as a member of the committee of thirty, which was appointed in December, 1872, to define the powers of the president and the assembly. One great object of the royalists was really to limit the influence of Thiers and cut him off from debate except on rare occasions. The report was presented by De Broglie. It was adopted. De Broglie was prominent in the general debates after that in opposition to the government and its concessions to the republicans. He was the leader of the conservative party, and his tactics in May, 1873, precipitated the resignation of Thiers. MacMahon was elected president in consequence, and De Broglie was made the minister of foreign affairs, the premier of the cabinet. In the fierce contest in the assembly, and in the election of that year, in which the republicans manifested great strength and gradually gained ground, De Broglie showed in many ways that he was not in sympathy with the republic. He even proclaimed that the restoration of royalty was near at hand. This was his darling ambition, and he has unceasingly labored for it ever since the close of the German war. In 1873 the way was partly open for a restoration by several events. Napoleon III. died, Chambord, who had upset the loyalists' plans several times by public letters refusing to give up the white flag, the symbol of hereditary right, had become a little more reasonable. The orleanists had formally renounced all claims in Chambord's favor, thus consolidating their strength. The cabinet was gaining strength from day to day in the assembly. Chambord, however, disappointed everybody again by his foolish Bourbon letter, in which he declared "My principle is everything," and "I am the pilot who alone is able to lead the vessel into port." This letter sealed the fate of the royalist party for the time being.

De Broglie left the cabinet in July, 1874. He has been an active conservative ever since, but has been compelled to see his party gradually losing ground year by year. He has seen the republic declared and the republicans with tremendous majorities in the government. His sudden return to power is out of keeping with the spirit of the times in France, and it remains to be seen whether it will have a longer duration than on the former occasion.

Cut Off With a Shilling.

Mr. Rowland H. Macy, the founder of Macy's dry goods store, which is a household word in New York city, died a few weeks ago leaving an estate valued at half a million. He left a wife, son and daughter, and to the first and last bequeathed the bulk of his fortune cutting off his son with a little more than the proverbial shilling. The following is the provision relating to the son: "I am grieved to say in this solemn manner that my experience has been such with my son, Rowland H. Macy, Jr., that I cannot intrust him with the care or management of any property. He has never succeeded in supporting himself. On the contrary, though he is now twenty-nine years of age, he has been entirely supported and maintained by me, although I have done everything in my power to aid him in establishing habits of temperance and sobriety, yet I am compelled to acknowledge the failure of every effort made by me and others to that end. His passion for strong drink has not hitherto been controlled by him. In view of these facts, I have deemed it wise to make the following provisions for his support and maintenance during his life."

The provision made is that a sufficient sum be invested in government bonds to pay the son $1,000 a year, unless the son contest the will or undertake to defeat its provisions, in which case he is to have nothing, and his share is to go to his mother and sister.

LAUNCHED OUT OF LIFE

THE FATAL STARTING OF THE NEW STEAMER SARATOGA.

Seven Men Killed and Many Known to be Wounded.

Instead of Cheers a Wail of Anguish Greets the Floating Craft.

CHESTER, PA., May 23.—Yesterday morning the Saratoga, a large iron steamship, which was to be launched at Roach's shipyard, started from its blocking sooner than was expected, killing and wounding many. Six dead bodies have been removed. About 40 men were under the Saratoga when she went off. An order was given for them to come out, but was not heard. The names of the killed, as far as known, are Edward Fowley, John Nelson, Charles Wright and Edward Burke. The wounded are George Woof, mortally, and Barney Cannon and Walter Parkinson, seriously. It is thought that some of the workmen were killed and dragged into the water by the ship. The bodies of the dead are horribly mangled, one being literally cut in halves, and others with their legs and arms torn off. The shipyard is thronged with friends and relatives of the victims and presents a very distressing scene.

SEVEN DEAD.

The total number of the dead in consequence of the accident at the ship yard is seven. In addition to those already reported, J. J. Crew was instantly killed, and George O. Woof and Barney Cannon died at 11 o'clock. Three persons were wounded, all of whom will probably recover. All of the killed and wounded were workmen employed at the yards, and were engaged in knocking blocks from under the keel. The scene during the time the ship was going off was heart-rending, men being seen struggling to escape, while huge blocks, rolled by the ship, crushed them to jelly. No assistance could possibly be rendered by those who were standing by. Instead of the cheers which usually greet a launch, a wail of anguish went up, and shrieks of pain rent the air. As soon as possible, the dead and wounded were carried to the yard office and physicians summoned. About 1,600 men are employed at the yard, and the friends of nearly all of them rushed to inquire for them. Flags are at half-mast throughout the town, and work at the yard has been stopped. John Roach has ordered money to be furnished to the families of the killed and wounded.

THE MANAGER'S STATEMENT.

John Fountain, who had entire charge of the launch, makes the following statement: "I found the ship was ready to move, and called for all hands to get out from under before we commenced cutting loose. The men who were down by the after blocking, evidently did not hear the order or did not obey. As they had fully five minutes to get out from the time the order was given until the ship started, some of the men remained under, which is frequently the case, to attend to the forward blocking.

All the men who were under the Saratoga just previously to the launching of her to day have been accounted for. No additional deaths have occurred among the injured, and the limit of the number killed

The Atlanta Daily Constitution

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1877

A CORRECTION.

Quite recently we embodied in our editorial columns for the purposes of comment a communication received from Mr. T. J. Fuller, of Blackshear. It appears that our printers made sad havoc with Mr. Fuller's communication. Where he wrote "convention" and "no convention," our able compositors put it "constitution" and "no constitution." This error is so apparent, however, to every intelligent reader that we are rather surprised at receiving a request from Mr. Fuller to make a correction. Large errors correct themselves—small ones need no correction. If it were otherwise, editors would be compelled to confine their work to elaborations of errata.

FRACTIONAL CURRENCY.

The government is anxious to accomplish the redemption of the fractional currency; and if our people would do their part, we would soon be rid of the ragged, greasy nuisances. The government has an abundance of silver coin, and the express companies are now ready to forward for any person whatsoever fractional currency to the United States treasurer in sums of $500 and upwards, and to return therefor United States notes or silver coin—all at the expense of the department. Under this regulation the business men of any small town, by combining, can procure supplies of subsidiary coins. Shipments of fractional currency in sums less than $500 may be made, but on such shipments the express charges will not be paid by the department. The national banks that have been designated as depositories have also been requested to redeem all fractional currency presented to them. These accomodations ought to insure the rapid exchange of rags for coins. The former are now in a sadly dilapidated condition, and every merchant and banker should lend a hand towards getting them speedily out of circulation.

THE SOUTHERN CROPS.

Accounts from the south represent the crop prospects as unusually promising. This is particularly the case in Louisiana and Mississippi. In the former state there will be a larger amount of sugar made than any year since 1861. The planters are in cheerful spirits, and better relations exist between them and the colored people than have been observable for years. There is no political excitement in the state, and no disturbing questions exist to array one race against the other. The colored laborers stick closely to the plantations and are working steadily and faithfully. Sugar planting is more systematically conducted than usual; it has been found that cotton seed meal, worth about $20 a ton, is a cheap and very valuable fertilizer when applied to the growing cane, and large quantities of it are now used. It is said that the effect is to increase the yield of sugar one-third. In Mississippi there is more cotton planted than has been seen for years; many plantations on the lower river that have not been cultivated since the war are now in cotton. The crop is represented to be clean and in good condition, and all classes of the people are working with unaccustomed cheerfulness. In Georgia planters say they can employ farm hands for $75 to $100 a year, which is but little more than half the hire of hands in slave times when the cost of the slave's clothing and medical attendance was an addition to his hire. If the season should be favorable, it is believed the cotton crop for the year will be 5,000,000 bales. No great amount of attention is being paid to corn, planters asserting that when western corn is as cheap as it has been for two years past they had better buy what they need and devote their lands to cotton.

The foregoing was taken from the editorial columns of the St. Louis Republican. It is the St. Louis view of the matter—the wish being strictly father to the thought. St. Louis desires to supply the south with western corn, bacon, hay and other products. It prefers that we should raise a five-million crop of cotton, because we would in that case raise no corn. It does not care whether the price of cotton be remunerative or not, because it knows that if the cotton mania prevails, we must buy western corn to keep body and soul together. Such a short-sighted suicidal policy will not prevail this year in Georgia or in any other southern state. St. Louis' produce dealers may as well look for other markets; for "if the season should be favorable" not a car load of corn will be shipped from St. Louis during the coming year for Georgia consumption. We are no longer in chains to the northwest. We need some foreign bacon, but we hope to produce a supply of that also within a trio of years. The policy urged by the Republican is financial madness, and the people of the south have learned the truth in the dear but excellent school of experience.

AN "INDEPENDENT" EDITOR.

When, some months ago, we took occasion to allude to the editor of that truly independent journal, the New York Tribune, as Whitelaw Gould, characterizing him playfully and kindly as the author of much of the editorial swash that daily appears in the columns of his paper, he firmly seized his Gould pen and erased the name of THE CONSTITUTION from his exchange list. We were among the first victims of his independence, but not the last. Quite recently the Messrs. Appleton, of New York city, presented the Tribune with a set of their cyclopædia. Once more seizing his little Gould pen, Jay Reid sat down upon his haunches and filled out a check for the value of the work. This check was promptly and politely returned, the publishers explaining that they did not want the money, but hoped that the editor would give their work such notice in the Tribune as, in his opinion, its merits might deserve. In response to this, it is stated that the able editor of the Tribune informed the Messrs. Appleton that his self-respect would not allow him to notice a work one of the editors of which had repeatedly abused him. The editor thus alluded to was none other than Mr. Charles A. Dana, who has lost no opportunity to show to the public that the Tribune is owned by Jay Gould and is published for the purpose of furthering the stock-jobbing interests of that wily operator. This is a new, but not a very surprising phase of "independent" journalism, and no one but a weak and narrow-minded editor would identify a standard work with a man against whom he entertains a spite.

THE TURKS' BLOODY SHIRT.

The sacred emblem of Turkish faith was unfolded last week with great pomp and ceremony by the sultan, Abdud Hamid, in person, who handed it to the Sheik-ul-Islam in solemn trust. The latter was mounted on a horse literally covered with gold, and, while holding the sacred banner in his hand, he was accompanied by the sultan, himself also on horseback, with sword in hand, through the principal streets of Constantinople. Couriers and heralds preceded the two high dignitaries of state, and, pointing to the unfurled banner, loudly proclaiming to the people that the war for the faith had commenced. It has since been sent under heavy escort to the Danube, there to inspire the Turkish hosts to battle for Allah and his prophet.

The time-honored rag is of dark green color, about two yards long and one and a half wide, and was originally a curtain in the bedchamber of Aischa, the best beloved wife of the prophet, who died in her bed. When Mohammed was on his deathbed and about to take leave of his generals, who were about to enter upon a new campaign against the heathen, the dying prophet gave them the curtain that overhung his bed, as a battle flag, so that the faithful should forever remember that they were doing battle for God and His prophet. Ever since that time, whenever the caliphs went into battle they took this flag with them, but in later years it was resolved to carry this holy relic into battle only whenever a war of religion was being waged. In 1683 the same flag waved from the walls of Vienna, and whenever the cause of Islam had to be defended it was unfurled to rally the faithful and encourage them to deeds of heroism. What, however, is the most important feature of this flag is the belief that any Mussulman who fights and falls under its shadows dies as a martyr, for whom the portals of heaven are opened at once.

The Sheik-ul-Islam is the chief legal and ecclesiastical funtionary of the Ottoman empire—the guardian of its ancient traditions—and in a time of peril like the present, he is "a biger man" than the sultan himself. His call to arms is directed to 170,000,000 Mohammedans, 56,000,000 of whom are in India. But, after all, says the New York World, the step simply formulates the general and traditional belief of all good Mahometans that actual warfare between a state which holds the faith of Islam and a state which professes another creed always is necessarily a holy war.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.

Scribner's monthly for June is a remarkably bright and interesting number of a magazine that is always bright and interesting. It opens with an article on Bartholdi's statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World," together with several illustrations, including a portrait of the sculptor and a sketch of his gigantic "Lion of Belfort." The other articles of note are: "To Damascus by Diligence;" "The Sunrise Never Failed us Yet;" "A State Ball at Constantinople;" "Pond Life;" "Croton Water;" "The Soul's Immortality;" "Benjamin Disraeli," with two portraits; "Ivan Tourgueneff," with portrait; together with the editorial departments, which are unusually elaborate and interesting. The gem of the number, however, is Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's story, entitled "Le Monsieur de la Petite Dame." It is one of the finest short stories we have ever read—brimming over with that dramatic tenderness and pathos that only genius can impart to its work. Another contribution which we have not enumerated above is from the pen of Charles Dudley Warner, and written in his best style. It is entitled "Calvin: A Study of Character."

THE SANITARY CONDITION OF SAVANNAH.

The Savannah News strongly intimates that the authorities of that city, while they have caused the long-neglected lowlands that environ the town to be drained, have neglected their duty as to the city proper, and have not given due attention to the drains, sinks, foul lots and lanes, and other sources of malarial disease. It is suggested that every ward in the city be thoroughly inspected, and that the authorities take prompt steps to compel property owners to remove all matter from their premises calculated to generate malaria. The suggestions of the News are indeed timely, but we had hoped that the proper steps had been taken long before this. Another such terrible visitation as that which Savannah experienced last season would be a calamity not only to that city, but to the state, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the authorities will at once respond to the promptings of the News. Already rumors of untimely sickness in Savannah are in circulation around this city, and although they are doubtless untrue, the very fact that they are in circulation shows that the delay of the authorities in inaugurating sanitary measures has created considerable uneasiness. As the News remarks, the subject is not one for newspaper discussion, but, at this distance, no other method suggests itself. The interests of Savannah are, in a great measure, the interests of Georgia, and whatever contingency paralyzes her business is sure to affect the prosperity of the state. We join with the News, therefore, in urging upon the authorities to do their duty and do to it at once.

THE THOMASVILLE FAIR.

The press convention assembled in Thomasville yesterday, and the May fair of the South Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical association opens today. The occasion promises to be a most delightful one, and we regret that circumstances have combined to prevent any of the editors of THE CONSTITUTION from being present. They have a live appreciation, however, of the enjoyment they will miss, not only in pleasant social discourse with their brethren of the press, but in mingling with the hospitable people of southern Georgia. Our present impression is that the convention of editors will not be largely attended, but those who do attend will be able to add another red-letter day to their calender. The fair will be a success, as all the previous fairs of the association have been.

Four thousand more passports have been issued thus far this year than were called for during the corresponding period of last year. The steamers go out crowded with people, who are going where they can get the most of pleasure, health and instruction for their money. A trip to Europe costs no more than a sojourn of three months at any of the fashionable watering-places, and it is in every respect preferable. But let us wait until our new line from Savannah is ready for business.

COLONEL HENRY MCIVER, the new associate judge of the South Carolina supreme court, was the solicitor of the eastern circuit down to the breaking out of the war, when he raised a cavalry company, serving with it to the close of the struggle, sometimes in one state and sometimes in another. He was unanimously elected to the vacancy caused by the promotion of Judge Willard to the chief-justiceship, and the result gives universal satisfaction in South Carolina.

PRESIDENT MACMAHON seems to be a French Mr. Grant. They have similar notions of a constitution, but circumstances are different. Grant used bayonets where it was safe to use them. MacMahon has a wider field. He has all France to try the military game on, while Grant was confined, by certain well-known inclinations of the Anglo-Saxon race, to a limited number of provinces that a cruel war had rendered helpless.

OHIO is the battle field of 1877. A governor is to be elected, as also a legislature that will have the electing of a United States senator for a full term. That senator will displace Stanley Matthews, who invented the new party that wouldn't form, and who took the seat vacated by John Sherman. The democrats intend to capture that seat and the state also. A five-months campaign that promises to be exceedingly lively is in sight.

The puppy has been unwell since, and the women spends a good deal of time in the yard waiting for him to come out from under the house. There will be some more of this item when he comes out.

MANY papers in speaking of the crisis in France use the term "national assembly" instead of the "chamber of deputies." The "national assembly," after establishing the republic, and defining the powers of the different branches of the government, retired to give place to the regularly constituted president, the senate and the chamber of deputies. Previous to February 25, 1875, the legislative power was exercised by the national assembly. Now the legislative power rests in the senate and chamber of deputies.

THE throne-room of the sultan at Constantinople is gorgeous The guilding is unequalled by any other building in Europe and from the ceiling hangs one of the superb Venetian chandeliers, whose two hundred lights make a gleam like that of a veritable sun. At each of the four corners of the room, tall candelbra in Baccarat glass are placed, and the throne is a huge seat covered with red velvet and with arms and back of pure gold. In the daytime floods of brilliant light pour into this room from the three great windows looking out on the Bosphorus, Scutari and the sea of Marmora.

THE insanity of Dr. Ayer, the patent medicine man, is said to be incurable. The Boston Globe says his fortune amounts to about $15,000,000. "He first showed symptoms of insanity about thirteen months ago, just after returning from a trip to Chicago, and among the most prominent manifestations was the writing of a number of strange and improper letters to various persons. The cause was attributed to a too close application to business, added to which was a melancholy disappointment on account of being defeated in an attempt to gain an election to congress."

BARBERS often assert that razors get tired of shaving, and that they will perform satisfactorily if permitted to rest for a time. It has been found by microscopic examination that the tired razor, from long stropping by the same hand and in the same direction, has the ultimate fibers of its surface or edge all arranged in one direction, like the edge of a piece of cut velvet; but after a month's rest these fibers rearrange themselves heterogeneously, crossing each other and presenting a saw like edge, each fiber supporting its fellow, and hence cutting the beard instead of being forced down flat without cutting, as when laid by.

ONE of the industrial innovation that appears to be quietly but surely making head is the use of steam for the propulsion of street cars. Within the past few months the experiment has been made in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Brooklyn, Newark and perhaps New York and other cities, and doubtless this motive power will eventually supersede horse power for general purposes. It may have its drawbacks, but it would relieve Mr. Bergh and his agents from the necessity of arresting drivers who made a single horse draw 7,000 pounds, as was done in New York the other day.

Nerves that Quiver,

Heads that ache, stomachs that inflict dyspeptic torments, muscles and joint racked with rheumatism, are infallibly restored to health by the celebrated elixir, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters bitters, a medicine prescribed by physicians, possessing infantile purity, and which no one takes in vain who is afflicted with any of the numerous complaints to which it is adapted It frequently happens that so-called remedies fail to produce a permanent effect. This is because they are more palliatives, and therefore do not remove the cause of the maladies, whose symptoms they after a time cease to ameliorate. This is notably the case with opiates and sedatives drugs. It is not so, however, with Hostetter's Bitters, which are a searching agents that conquers the disease as well as banishes its indicia.

A FEAR.

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

Oh, what is happiness, when fear
Starts like a pale, unbidden ghost
That stands across the banquet hall,
And spills the draught we long for most?

For when I look at her it comes,
The fear that she may leave us soon—
So perfect in the morning light,
How can the blossom last till noon!

The soft and shining baby hair
Seems but a nimbus round the brow;
The sweet amazement of the eye
Asks what they do in heaven now.

I marvel what they do there, too,
Without her in that far off land:
I tremble lest I turn and see
Great angels in the sunbeam stand—

Great angels, whose departing wings
Shall spread a shadow on the air,
Since having earth so bright, I fear
Heaven be not heaven with at her there!

THE DIVIDING LINE.

In the Rocky Mountains there is said to be a house so situated, that the rain falling on one said is carried to the Pacific, while that falling on the other, is carried to the Atlantic. So there are places in life where one overt act changes prosperity, health, and happiness, into disaster, sickness, and early death. In America many thousands die annually of consumption, and yet Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will, in its early stages, effect a perfect and permanent cure of this fatal disease. It corrects and purifies the blood, thus striking at the root of the evil. When complicated with catarrh, sore throat, and hoarseness, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy in connection with the Discovery. If the liver be torpid and bowels irregular, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pelets. For particulars of treatment see "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," over 900 pages, $1 50. Address the Author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y. d&w

The Methodist Protestants.

BALTIMORE, May 22.—A resolution was adopted making it the duty of the pastor to establish a Sunday school in his congregation. Neglect of which may be a bar to the passage of the delinquent pastor's official character at the ensuing annual conference and a sufficient cause for his removal from the church.

—Thistles require radical treatment to remove them, and so do Boils and Pimples. Dr. Bull's Blood Mixture is a radical blood searcher curing all skin eruptions.

To All, Particularly Invalids,

spring is a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases may be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated and the system to remain in a disordered condition, until the disorder has time to develope itself. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of curp, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent—hea ache, indigestion; disordered liver, want o appetite, nausea, or feverish skin, to take, without delay, Schenck's Mandrake Pills. We know or no remedy so harmless and effective in its action. It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver. If they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and effectually prevent a bilious attack. They are sold by all druggists.

The Buckeye.

It is a well established fact, that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment will cure, if used according to directions, the Æsculus Hippocastanum, or Horse Chestnut, commonly known as the Buckeye, has been highly esteemed for many years, owing to the fact, that it possesses virtues, lying in the bitter principle called Æsculin which can be utilized for the cure of Piles. If affected with that terrible disease, use Buckeye Pile Ointment, and be relieved. Price, 50 cents.

THE DISTRICT CONVENTION.

Action of the Representatives of the Three Counties Yesterday.

The convention of county committees charged with the duty of nominating delegates to the constitutional convention met in this city yesterday at noon.

It was understood before the assembling of the class that the five delegates to which Fulton was indisputably entitled, as well as Cobb's two, and Clayton's one, would be named without discussion, and that the fight, if fight there was to be, must be made over the ninth man, or "the floater," as he was called. The convention was a full one, the twenty-four members either being present in person or by proxy. The convention met promptly at 12 o'clock.

Judge Wright was called to the chair upon the motion of Colonel Robertson, of Cobb.

Judge Wright in taking the chair, thanked the convention for the honor conferred, and invoked the exercise of wisdom, prudence and patriotism in the discharge of its duty. He then announced the convention organized and ready for business.

Mr. Swell then moved that the names of the delegates be enrolled. Carried.

Clayton—Jesse Anthony, H C Hutchinson, F M Clayton, J J Dorsey.

Cobb—Smith Lemon, Wm Florence, George Roberts, D N McEachen, S B Love, J C Moss, by proxy (S B L) E J Letze, by proxy (Col J W R) C A Dunwoody, by proxy (Col J W R.)

Fulton—M T Castleberry, S M Inman, G T Dodd, C A Collier, W F Wright, T A Morris, R F Maddox, Samuel Weil, F P Rice, R J Griffin, Clark Howell, J M C Reid.

Colonel Maddox, of Fulton, then moved that the convention go into an election of delegates. He supposed that the representatives of each county had selected their delegates, and he thought it proper that the convention should now pass upon the matter.

Colonel Weil, of Fulton, thought it best that the convention should receive from the chairman of each delegation the list of delegates selected by their respective counties, and that the convention should ratify the delegates so named; and that the floater should then be chosen by a separate ballot.

He moved to amend Colonel Maddox's resolution in this regard.

This was carried, and the secretary was then ordered to call the counties.

Upon Clayton being called, the chairman of the county delegation announced the name of Col. J. T. Spence, as the choice of the county. This nominated was ratified by a rising vote. Carried unanimously.

Upon the call of Cobb county, the chairman of the Cobb county delegation presented the names of Geo. Roberts, Esq., and A. C. McIntosh, Esq. These nominations were then unanimously ratified.

Upon the call of Fulton county, Mr. Collier presented the following names: L. J. Gartrell, P. L. Mynatt, John Collier, N. J. Hammond, and Ben. E. Crane. Unanimously ratified.

Mr. R. J. Griffin, of Fulton, offered the following:

Resolved, That a committee of ten; five from Fulton, three from Cobb, and two from Clayton —be appointed to retire and suggest a suitable person to represent the district as floater.

Mr. Collier of Fulton moved to amend by striking out the word "floater," and inserting "delegate at large." As amended the resolution was carried, there being only one vote in the negative.

The chairman appointed the following committee:

Clayton—W T Kimzey, J J Dorsey.

Cobb.—S B Love, Smith Lemon, George Roberts.

Fulton—R J Griffin, J M C Reed, R F Maddox, Samuel Inman, F P Rice.

Col Weil, of Fulton, moved that the Hon J W H Underwood be invited to a seat on the floor. Amended to include Attorney General Ely and carried unanimously.

Col Weil then moved that Judge Underwood be requested to address the convention.

The judge arose and announced that he would "proceed to do so." He said that once when Judge Clayton and ——— were together at Columbus, Judge Clayton being called upon to speak asked "What he should speak about?" "About five minutes," was the reply of ———. Judge Underwood promised to take this advice.

He then said that the talk about moving the capital was a huge joke. Atlanta is the natural capital of the state, and will remain so. While not an original advocate of a convention, he thought that it was now best to hold it, and be done with the agitation concerning it. When he reflected on the character of the men nominated here and elsewhere as delegates, he did not fear that the convention would do anything unwise. He did not think that the whipping post or imprisonment for debt would be revived. He confessed to a desire to see a constitution made for Georgia that could be signed by such men as Jenkins, Lawton, Toombs or Johnson, as president of the convention that made it. He closed amidst applause.

Attorney General Ely being called on, merely thanked the convention for the honor it had conferred upon him, but declined to make any further remaks.

The committee on the choice for delegate at large having remained out for some time, Mr. Collier of Fulton moved that a committee of two be appointed to wait on the committee, and ascertain if they were likely to agree promptly upon a name, and to request them if they were not, to return to the convention room again and let the matter be settled there. The chair appointed as this committee: Collier of Fulton, Florence of Cobb, and Hutchison of Clayton. This committee retired and returned in a moment, announcing that a report from the committee on delegate at large might be expected in a very few moments.

The committee entered the room in a short time, and reported through Colonel Maddox that the committee had not been able to agree; that the names of Colonel J. W. Robertson and Senator E. P. Howell were balloted for by the committee, and neither received two-thirds of the votes cast. The committee recommended that these two names be now submitted to the convention and balloted for. The report was received, agreed to and the chairmen ordered that the ballots be prepared.

Mr. Griffin, of Fulton, moved that the two-thirds rule be adopted. Carried.

The ballot was then taken and resulted as follows: Howell, 10; Robertson, 13.

There being no election, a new ballot was ordered. Before the ballot was had, Col Maddox withdrew the name of Senator Howell, and moved that Colonel Robertson be unanimously nominated. This was carried.

In response to a call, Col Robertson stated he had reluctantly allowed the use of his name; he was a business man and no office-seeker. He was deeply grateful, however, for the honor conferred, and felt that it was the highest he had ever received. He promised to be faithful to the trust imposed upon him.

THE VIEWS OF THE CANDIDATES.

It is said that a majority of the gentlemen nominated on yesterday are opposed to the calling of a convention.

A CONSTITUTION reporter called on the nominees, but failed to get the views of any one of them except a limited disclosure from Col. J. W. Robertson, the delegate at large. Col. Robertson says that he is disposed to favor a convention if the nominees all over the state were such men as might be safely trusted with such an important mission. If not, he thinks it would be exceedingly unsafe to have a convention.

The Fulton county delegates are absolutely non-committal. One of them wanted "a little breathing time" before making up his mind. Another had not matured his views as yet. Another simply refused to say anything. Another suggested that we say that he was out of town and we were unable to find him; and so on.

AN ANTI CONVENTION TICKET.

It is very generally believed that a ticket of out and out anti-convention men will be suggested and supported up to election day. Several strong names are freely suggested for this ticket on the streets, but we hardly feel justified in giving them publicity until the anti convention movement shall have taken more definite shape.

Special Railroad Card.

As an erroneous impression is liable to be made upon the citizens of Atlanta, from a Postal Card circular distributed in the city lately, I would respectfully state that I am still in the Railroad Ticket business at my old stand, No. 4 Kimball House, ready to furnish tickets and information to all who may favor me with a call, and take this occasion to express my gratitude to the many citizens of Atlanta and the traveling public generally for the generous patronage heretofore extended to me.

Very respectfully, R. D. MANN,

BULLDOZING A DOG CATCHER.

"How Can I Leave Thee."

The dog wagon is on its ceaseless rounds through the city and frequently stands before the gates of the pound loaded down with ill starred whelps.

It seems to be very little trouble to get a load, and the dogs seem to enjoy it as much as their captors. Frequently darkies and small boys make quite a struggle before parting forever with some dear cur who has won their affections by long association, but the catchers are usually victorious, and after allowing due time for a last embrace of the doomed pet, they trundle the black cart in its gloomy path of triumph.

A day or two ago, however, one cur was preserved from a cruel fate by the fatefulness of his master, an old and highly respected citizen. The gentleman was walking along Whitehall street, some distance from the center of the city, and his dog was trotting at his heels, as good dogs usually do. Soon man and beast met the dog wagon half full of victims. A sharp, freckle faced mulatto boy, who danced savage attendance on the car of death, saw the approaching cur and, of course, observed that he had no badge of safety on his neck. The catcher was happy. He made a long dive for the dog and was about to embrace him in his fatal clutch, when the citizen turned and saw the danger of his canine attendant.

"What do you want with that dog?" said he in quiet inquisitiveness.

"I'm gwine to take him to de wagon. Got no business hopping round wid no tag on."

"All right, take him on."

But somehow the ferocious catcher hesitated. Perhaps it was because he saw raised in the air above his head a hickory stick about the size of the center pole of a side-show, and then he might have heard these words—"Yes, and if you lay your dirty hands on that dog, I'll smash you as flat as a batter cake."

It didn't look like a paying game to the boy, and he beat a retreat as rapid as his first fierce charge, while the irate master sauntered off whistling the sweet strains of "How can I leave thee," his grateful cur wagging an elegant accompaniment with his preserved tail.

THE BOYNTON MEDAL.

Liberality of an Atlanta Merchant.

Not long since our fellow-townsman, Mr. C. E. Boynton, of the firm of Chamberlain, Boynton & Co., liberally endowed a prize medal fund for Emory college, the interest of which each year shall be devoted to the purchase of a handsome gold medal to be presented to the writer of the finest essay from the junior or senior classes of the college.

At the approaching commencement, the presentation will be made on Monday night, the address to be delivered by Professor Morgan Calloway, D.D., one of the most polished speakers in the state.

This example of liberality is worthy of the imitation of those men of means who feel an interest in Georgia's educational resources and are willing to express it with their pocketbooks as well as with fine words. The catalogue of Emory college, just published, gives the following notice of this liberal donation:

Mr. Charles E. Boynton, of Atlanta, Georgia has amply endowed a "prize medal" "for the best essay written by any member of the junior or senior class." On this foundation a gold medal, of the value of $30, will be presented, with a suitable address, on the occasion of each annual commencement, to that member of the junior or senior class whose essay may be adjudged as in all worthy, by a committee of three literary gentlemen, not connected with the college. The prize essay will be published in the annual catalogue.

Trinity Musical Reception.

The pressure upon our columns yesterday morning rendered it impossible to do justice to the above splendid musical entertainment at DeGive's opera house on Tuesday night. We refer to it again, to notice more particularly the high order of excellence of some of the leading parts of children. The beautiful tableaux presented on the first rising of the curtain, was one of the most charming scenes we have ever witnessed at DeGive's opera house.

The singing of little Johnnie O'Donnelly, who really lead the alto in the oratorio chorus, was the most remarkable we ever heard from a boy of ten. We would suggest to the management that they give him a solo in the programme for to-night.

One marked feature of the choruses was the clearness of the articulation of all the singers, every word being distinctly heard by the audience.

The operatic medley "The Busy Household," was one of the best on the programme. The young ladies performed their parts admirably. The performances of the busy washerwoman, the cook and the dairy maid were especially noticeable. It ought by all means to be repeated to-night.

The quartettes by Patterson, Barnwell, Goldsmith and Lively was exceedingly fine, and the audience showed their appreciation by repeated and long en cores. But the length of the programme prevented their reappearance. We shall hope to hear them to-night.

"Boarding House Experience," by Miss Wellford Cropp, was splendidly rendered. The little miss proved herself the "Cropp" of the season. It will certainly bear repetition.

"The meeting of the Winds," was a beautiful scene, and each sustained their parts admirably.

But decidedly the hit of the evening was the 'Singing Skew," led by our young friend Mark Goldsmith, as singing master. It was alone worth the price of admission, and should certainly be repeated to-night.

The grand cantata of "Daniel," the closing performance of the evening, displayed a higher order of musical attainment than any other upon the programme, and would have done no discredit to either of our splendid musical societies. The solos were all excellent, that of Miss Belle Constantine especially so. Indeed, we have seldom heard finer singing, and the audience manifested a keen appreciation of the young lady's rare talent. She certainly deserves to rank with our charming and popular queens of song, Mrs. Snook, Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Clark. The entire performance reflected great credit upon Professor Barnwell, to whose admirable training and direction the success of the entertainment is to be mainly attributed. He has now unfading laurels as a musical teacher and director.

The performance to-night bids fair to rival that of Tuesday night in variety and interest and we expect to see DeGive's packed full.

Not an Escape.

It is with pleasure that we correct the report made yesterday of the escape of Turner Ivy, the negro burglar, who was sentenced for twenty years. The rumor of his escape from the bailiff who was conveying him to jail was a mistake, although it prevailed generally in the city. The bailiff was faithful and Turner has gone to his long retreat safe and sound.

DOWN TOWN.

—If you want good soda or pure mineral water, go to Schuman's drug store, on Whitehall street.

—See advertisement of sale at auction Friday morning, of fine cochin and light brahma chickens, by John T. McGuire.

—The best of the season still at John Tagomasin's on Whitehall street, near railroad crossing. Fine apples, bananas, strawberries, fresh candies—in fact, everything nice.

—The street hands have cut the bank down ten feet on two sides of Mrs. Lester's house, corner Spring and Luckie street. The operation will doubtless cost the city enough money to have built her a new house.

—The first rehearsal of the Doctor of Alcantars was given last night at Guilford's music rooms. The star of the Beethoven society has a leading role, and several of the Rossini members fill other prominent parts. Several ladies of St. Philip's church are working energetically to get up this little light opera for the purpose of enclosing the church and parsonage. It will be rendered some time about the 10th of June.

—Justice Bradley will be in the city to-morrow, and will preside at the United States circuit court. Curiosity will attract many to see him.

—A hop complimentary to the Misses McCombs, of Memphis, and Miss Annie Camp of Marietta, will be given at the Kimball house next Tuesday night.

—The ladies of St. Philip's church are preparing a mother goose entertainment.

—Trinity concert will be repeated to-night with change of programme. The "singing Skewl" will be reproduced.

—Flour is down and the poor man knows once more the taste of biscuit.

—The city has been remarkably blessed recently. A whole month has passed without a notable fire.

—The hot sun combined with dry winds is shrivelling vegetables in the whole country.

—The cherry crop is good for the first time in three years.

—The meetings of the Atlanta Pomological society will soon become quite interesting.

—Calicoes are coming into favor as walking dresses, and they make a woman look sweeter than forty yards of silk and a bushel of lace.

—Gainesville sends us most of our chickens.

—Ice is a public blessing at a cent a pound.

—Peachtree and Marietta streets are the popular walks late in the afternoon.

—Several fine quartette clubs have been formed among the young men of the city.

—Judge Augustus Reese, of Madison, one of the most promtnent men of Middle Georgia, is at the Markham house. It is more than probable that Judge Reese will be a member of the convention if one is called. His presence in that body would be exceedingly gratifying to all who know his abilities and sterling virtue.

—At the solicitation of quite a number of persons who were so much pleased with the entertainment at the Opera house Tuesday night, as to desire to take their entire families to the second entertainment, which is to be given to-night, the committee have consented to place the price of tickets at 25 cents, but desire to say that the second entertainment will in no respect be inferior to the first, and in some respects it will be much better. The committee hope to see such a house as the entertainment merits.

Persons who have bought tickets and paid 50 cents can have the difference refunded by application to the committee.

—A private picnic will go from the city to Iceville to-morrow.

—The streets are much better watered now than heretofore.

—Peter Berron has sold his suburban residence with all its surrounding attractions.

—The dog wagons roll around in the moonlight, and return to the station house like heavily laden with spoils.

—Up to date one hundred and twelve impounded dogs have been poisoned by the city.

—General Dudley M. DuBose, of Washington, Wilkes county, was in the city yesterday stopping at the Kimball house.

—Major Thomas H. Hayes, superintendent of the Pullman palace car company, is at the Kimball house.

THE REEVES HOMICIDE.

Arrest of a Suspected Accomplice.

The whereabouts of Henry Thomas, the negro who killed Henry Reeves last Sunday morning with a rock are as yet unknown. Several rumors of his capture in different parts of the state have reached the city, but have all proven false.

Yesterday Lewis Allen, colored, was arrested on suspicion of complicity in the murder. He was present at the time of the killing and circumstances point to some connection of his with the fatal fray. He made no resistance to arrest, but protested his innocence.

He is now in the station house and may have a preliminary examination to-day.

Interesting Meeting.

The protracted services at the First Methodist church still continue and constantly increase in interest. Large congregations attend the meetings each night. The altar is filled almost every meeting with petitioners for prayer. Already fourteen persons have joined the church since the beginning of the protracted services. Last night Rev. W. F. Cook preached an earnest sermon which was attended with marked results. To-night Rev. J. H. Martin, of the First Presbyterian church, will preach. The public are cordially invited to be present at any of the meetings. Morning prayer at nine o'clock.

The Library Concert.

The concert by Prof. and Mad. Gonzalez, on Thursday night, for the benefit of the Young Men's library association promises to be a very brilliant success. All our musical people are in expectation of its excellent features and no one who favors art or is a friend to the library can afford to stay away.

Of Prof Gonzalez we need say no more now than to quote the following from the New York Herald:

"We take pleasure in announcing to the western, northwestern and southwestern states, that Professor R. F. Gonzalez, the eminent baritone of this city, intends giving a series of grand concerts in all the cities and towns of importance in the western and southwestern states. The concerts given by Professor Gonzalez should be heard by all desirous of cultivating a true taste for the highest order of church music."

Superior Court.

This court was in session Tuesday, Judge Underwood presiding.

The following business was transacted:

Oliver Green, assault to murder; seven years in the penitentiary.

Mariah Johnson, larceny after trust; three years in the penitentiary.

Phillis Whitfield, burglary, not guilty, and discharged.

Turner Ivy, burglary; twenty years in the penitentiary.

The court heard some motions in civil cases.

Judge Underwood will take up the criminal bond cases to-day, and all those who are interested in them will take notice and be prepared to answer.

Yesterday several negroes were convicted of burglary, larceny, etc., and thirty-four years of labor was contributed to the penitentiary.

The Hop Last Night.

Last night the elegant ball room of the Kimball house was the scene of a hop given by the young men of Atlanta complimentary to the Misses Frost of LaGrange, Miss Cator of Baltimore, and Miss Englehardt of Raleigh. All of these young ladies were present, and were the centres of general attraction.

The attendance of Atlanta ladies and gentlemen was quite large, making a very elegant and select company.

Among the visiting belles were the Misses McCombs, of Memphis, and Miss Camp, of Marietta. Among the scores of charming home folks that were present, any discrimination is unnecessary.

The grand march was played by a good band at ten o'clock, and from that time until two the festivity was incessant.

The evening was unexpectedly cool, and this added no little to the pleasure of the hop.

A good picture of Atlanta society was presented last evening in the ball room, and the arcades of the hotel.

The entlemen who had the affair in charge managed it most gracefully throughout, and a large number of invited guests spent a happy evening of social enjoyment.

FINANCIAL.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
Atlanta, May 23, 1877.

Lake Shores have been the feature of the New York stock market this afternoon. Opening at 51⅞ it fluctuated rapidly, with a declining tendency, selling at 46⅞ at the close, having sold during the afternoon as high as 52¼. This is attributed to a rumor in Chicago that Vanderbilt has telegraphed from Europe to reduce the passenger rate from Chicago to New York to $15, on account of the starting of the fast train by the Pennsylvania railroad. This rumor cannot be verified.

The Nashville Banner puts it thus pointedly: Here is a fact of two worth remembering. Georgia, Kentucky and Missouri were all injured by the war between the states. All of them had to submit to the abolition of slavery. The bonds issued by any one of these states for $1 000 will bring $2,500 of bonds issued by Tennessee. Only yesterday was Louisiana able to get her freedom, and to day one of her bonds will bring two of those of Tennessee. When we remember that we have had exclusive control of our affairs in Tennessee for a period of eight years, and that the destruction of state property in Tennessee as compared with that of Louisiana was small, comment is unnecessary.

A dispatch from London says: The Times' London dispatch says bourse opened very firm on Tuesday at about the highest quotations of the day, but the strong tendency was soon checked by the news that Prince Bismarck had been recalled to Berlin. This, in the present sensitive state of the market, told with rapid severity.

COMMERCIAL.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
Atlanta, May 24, 1877.

On Change.

At the chamber of commerce yesterday the most remarkable change was that in all grades of flour, except Fancy Family, which stands steady at $17 00. Extra Family was marked down from $10 50 to $10 00; Family was put at $9 50 instead of $10 00. Extra fell, likewise, from $8 50 to $8 00, and Superfine from $7 50 to $7 00. Supply of Fancy Family is light, with very little demand; the other grades are found in large quantities at most of the leading wholesale and commission houses. The fall in flour is due to the decline in corn, as the two markets almost invariably react upon each other. It is not improbable that to-day there may be a shading to a still lower figure, unless the demand becomes suddenly more brisk on account of yesterday's declension. Corn remains steady at 50 cents, with very little increase in either the supply or the demand.

ROUNDABOUT IN GEORGIA.

—A correspondent desires to know how cucumbers should be picked. We are not as truly rural as we might be, but the best plan seems to be to pick them with the fingers—nor should the picking be delayed until they are thoroughly ripe. A thoroughly ripe cucumber is an abomination, and not even salt will save it.

—The newspapers are beginning to say very little about "belles." No newspaper is up with the times that does not have a well-filled "belle" department.

—Nine hundred and sixty-seven Georgia colonels have addressed us postal cards inquiring if our article on Sunday was meant as a personal attack. We assure them that nothing of the sort was intended. It was our purpose merely to magnify the office of colonel and call for more recruits.

—Eugene Speer has not visited Atlanta since he severed his connection with journalism. This looks suspicious. We know of two who would like to see him occasionally.

—George King, of the Monroe Advertiser, rides himself out every afternoon in a horse and buggy.

—Joe Greer, of Forsyth, who keeps one of the best hotels in middle Georgia, still wears his seventeen ounce amethyst ring, but he keeps away from mules.

—Another press convention has assembled, and still Triplett, of the Thomasville Times, is unmarried. There is something ominous about this.

—The editor of the Barnesville Weekly is gradually educating himself up to a point where he will begin to dislike Sunday literature.

—Colonel Thompson's young man doesn't seem to be contributing to the columns of the Savannah News as voluminously as heretofore. This, however, does not afford any adequate grounds of complaint.

—The Savannah Recorder, which is the only German paper in America printed in English, doesn't seem to admire our allusions to the Count Johannes B. Gormanne. We were afraid this would be the case when we begun, wherefore we have a great mind to applaud the Recorder.

—What was the result of the Hawkinsville debating club as to how THE CONSTITUTION stands on the convention question? We should be glad to hear.

—Anxious Inquirer—The whole secret of the growth of Atlanta is this: If you buy a lot it is like playing a game of casino—you have to build on it if you make anything.

—Hon. James T. Nisbet and Mr. George W. Gustin are spoken of as delegates to the convention from Bibb. They're good men.

—Next week the Dalton Enterprise, one of the best of our weekly exchanges, will issue a mammoth edition, the greater portion of which will be sent out to persons who are not subscribers. This affords an excellent opportunity to advertisers—especially Atlanta advertisers—to introduce themselves and their business to the people of one of the most prosperous and populous sections of the state.

—Some of the Savannah druggists have removed their night bells because they were troubled with persons who would come at two o'clock in the morning to buy kerosene.

—Colonel Logan, of Griffin, is a professional tomata culturist.

—The up passenger train on the State road killed a man and a cow on Sunday evening near Kingston.

—The Dalton boys fight chickens against owls, and the Enterprise raises an 'owl against the practice.

—Colonel Ben. H. Loughridge, of Murray county, is ill with paralysis.

—The Griffin News says: THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION is brought down on the afternoon train on Sundays, and it is a great convenience to subscribers who are anxious to get the paper on that day. But there seems to be a crowd who do not take it, and hang around when the names are called out, and if a subscriber happens not to be present, one of these hangers-on yells out, "I'll take his paper," and that is the last of it. We know from experience what a nuisance it is, and have heard others complain loudly thereat. It is wrong in principle and ought to be stopped.

—Dalton Citizen: An old landmark—Ab. Morris, an old slave of Jim Morris, deceased, is now hale and hearty at 93 years of age. We met him a few days ago in town and learned that he helped to dig the first grave at Spring Place, then a wild wilderness. He was then too old to do road work, being exempt by law. It is said that he can now clear more land and hoe more cotton than any man in upper Georgia, but he cannot plough or do much work that requires other exertion than his arms. This is certainly a case of much physica endurance, and a guarantee of the healthfulness of North Georgia.

—Under the head of "The Pottery," the LaGrange Reporter says: We visited this institution last week. It was started by two gentlemen from Atlanta, who seem to know their business well. It is located near the carriage factory, and there is plenty of suitable earth convenient. The clay is first put into a mill, and moistened and ground to the proper consistency. It is then ready to be made into jugs, jars and similar vessels. The potter places a few handsfull on a horizontal wheel, which is turned by a pedal. With skillful hand he then moulds into any shape desired. The process is exceedingly simple but very interesting. After the vessel has been formed on the wheel, it is transferred to the yard, where it is sundried after the manner of drying bricks. When sufficiently hardened, it is put into a furnace and burned for some hours. It is then ready for use.

—Mr. D. W. Humphreys, of Dalton, has drawn up the following for the Enterprise. It is based on the code of Georgia: In a promissory note, if no amount of interest be specified, only seven per cent can be collected. A promissory note without a seal is barred in six years, with a seal in twenty years, after the same becomes due. A note or other contract by a minor is avoidable only when minor arrives at majority. Any act by the principal and creditor which increases the liability of the surety, discharges the latter. Any promise to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another, cannot be enforced, unless the same be in writing. If maker of a note cannot write, a mark is sufficient, but it is better to have a witness to the same. Days of grace are not allowed on bills or drafts payable at sight. A security, at any time after the debt becomes due on which he is liable, may give written notice to the creditor or his representative to sue, and if suit is not instituted within three months after such notice, the surety will be discharged from liability, provided principal's residence is mentioned in such notice. Suits on open accounts shall be brought within four years after the right of action accrues. An agreement, without a valuable consideration cannot be enforced. Fraud voids all contracts. A female witness may be examined and not appear in court, by interrogatories. Signatures made with a led pencil are good in law. The act of an agent will bind principal, if within the scope of his author ty, or is subsequently ratified by principal. Witnesses shou'd sign the following instruments: Mortgage on personal property, one witness; on real estate, two; to deeds, two; to wills, three. Where a parent gives personal property to a child, and the possession remains with the parent, the gift is void as to bona fide creditors and purchasers. A mortgage not recorded within thirty days loses precedence over another recorded after that time, unless the latter mortgagee has knowledge of the existence of the former. A deed not recorded within one year loses precedence over another recorded after that time, unless the purchaser knows of the existence of the existence of the former deed. A merchant can generally collect of the husband for necessaries furnished the wife, though the debter may not authorize the credit. Any person furnishing a minor spirituous liquors is liable to indictment, if the same be furnished without the consent of the parent or guarnian. Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

Dr. Tutt's Pills
TUTT'S PILLS
A distinguished physician of New York says: "It is astonishing how universally Dr. Tutt's Pills are used. In my daily rounds, I hear of them not only among the poor, but their virtues are heralded from the mansions of the wealthy and refined. Knowing the inventor from his long connection with the medical profession, I have great confidence in their merits, and of late have often prescribed them with the happiest results in cases where I desired to make a decided impression on the liver."
TUTT'S PILLS CURE SICK HEADACHE.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE DYSPEPSIA.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE PILES.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE FEVER AND AGUE.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE BILIOUS COLIC.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE KIDNEY COMPLAINT.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.
TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.
Dr. Tutt has been engaged in the practice of medicine thirty years, and for a long time was demonstrator of anatomy in the Medical College of Georgia, hence persons using his pills have the guarantee that they are prepared on scientific principles, and are free from all quackery.
He has succeeded in combining in them the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHENING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC. While they move all unhealthy secretions, they produce no weakness. They may be taken at any time without restraint of diet or occupation. As a safe family medicine they have no equal.
PRICE, 25c.

Spermatorrhea and Impotency, as the result of self-abuse in youth, sexual excesses in manhood, or other causes, and producing some of the following effects: Nervousness, Seminal Emissions, (night emissions by dreams). Dimness of Sight, Defective Memory, Pimples on the Face, Aversion to Society of Females, Confusion of Ideas, Loss of Sexual Power, &c., rendering marriage improper or unhappy, are thoroughly and permanently cured. SYPHILIS or Mercurial Disease positively cured and entirely eradicated from the system. Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, Hernia, (or Rupture). All and other private diseases quickly cured.
It is self-evident that a physician who pays special attention to a certain class of diseases, and treating thousands annually, acquires great skill. Physicians knowing this fact often recommend persons to my care. When it is inconvenient to visit the office for treatment, medicines can be sent privately and safely by mail or express anywhere.
Cures Guaranteed in all Cases undertaken.
Consultation free personally or by letter free and invited. Charges reasonable and correspondence strictly confidential.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and bereavement perhaps petition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.
AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, by long and extensive use, has proves that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth; and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brush
